Abu-Jaber lives in with her family and teaches writing and literature at Portland State University.

DERRICK ADAMS | Visual Arts National Selection Panelist | YoungArts New York Visual Arts Director | Derrick Adams is a multidisciplinary New York-based artist whose practice focuses on the fragmentation and manipulation of structure and surface, exploring self-image and forward projection. A recipient of a 2009 Louis Comfort Tiffany Award, Adams received his M.F.A. from Columbia University and his B.F.A. from Pratt Institute, and is a Skowhegan and Marie Walsh Sharpe alumnus. His exhibition and performance highlights include MoMA PS1, Brooklyn Museum of Art, PERFORMA, Studio Museum in Harlem, Brooklyn Academy of Music, and his work is part of the permanent collection of The Metropolitan Museum of Art.

CHLOE AFTEL | YoungArts Los Angeles Photography Master Teacher | Chloe Aftel is a photographer and filmmaker who graduated from USC with a Master of Fine Arts in film production. Her work has been recognized by American Photo, PDN, FujiFilm, Kodak and the International Photography Awards. Her clients include Levi's, Verizon, GMC, intendo, Vogue, Rolling Stone, L'Uomo Vogue, Vanity Fair, TheWall Street Journal and Dazed & Confused.

KELLY AKASHI | YoungArts Los Angeles Visual Arts Master Teacher | Kelly Akashi is an artist who has had numerous gallery and museum exhibitions, including at the Astrup Fearnley Museet for Moderne Kunst, The Hammer Museum's Made in LA Biennial, and at Midway Contemporary Art. Akashi's sculptural objects bear a complex relationship to geometric and industrial forms. Impressionability, material memory, decomposition, and putrefaction are terms that are often used to describe her interest in materials and processes that negotiate the tricky territories of permanence and monumentality within the history of sculpture. Many works in her oeuvre pit traditional materials against their ephemeral counterparts. She often casts organic materials in bronze, an iconic medium of traditional sculpture, and displays these pieces alongside works using short-lived materials such as candle wax.

ANDERSON F. ALDEN | YoungArts Los Angeles Classical Music Discipline Coordinator | Anderson F. Alden is an award-winning composer based in Los Angeles. Anderson was selected to be one of the first four Composer Fellows with the Los Angeles Philharmonic under the direction of Pulitzer Prize-winner Steven Stucky. Alden's recent orchestral work Lift was selected to open the 2016 summer season at the Hollywood Bowl, and was performed by the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra, conducted by Thomas Wilkins, on a concert featuring Steely Dan. He has had two orchestral works premiered by the Los Angeles Philharmonic, as well as a chamber work premiered by Christian McBride and the Sonus Quartet, in Walt Disney Concert Hall.

ABDUL ALI | Writing National Reviewer | Abdul Ali is the author of the 2014 New Issues Poetry Book Prize Trouble, and is a teacher of English and Creative Writing. KARRIN ALLYSON | YoungArts Week Voice Master Teacher | Five time Grammy nominee Karrin Allyson has released thirteen Jazz vocal albums with Concord Jazz albums, a recent self-produced holiday album, Yuletide Hideaway that won four stars from Downbeat. In 2015, she released Many A New Day: Karrin Allyson Sings Rodgers & Hammerstein. The collection marks Allyson's debut on the Motéma label, and is a 14-song collection featuring Allyson's romantic, sly and swinging take on songs that have become part of our cultural fabric. Allyson currently lives in New York City, following a childhood in the Midwest, schooling in the Bay Area, degree in classical piano performance and important stints in Minneapolis and Kansas City, where she began her recording career. Allyson currently spends two days out of three on tour, playing the major jazz festivals, concert venues and clubs of the U.S. and making repeated tours overseas — to Brazil, Japan, Australia, and the great cities of Europe.

RYAN AMADOR | YoungArts Los Angeles Voice Master Teacher | Ryan Amador is a singer, songwriter, and director dedicated to creating new works within the performing arts. His current music & video project, (In) Body, is a collaboration with LA-based producer and instrumentalist Daniel Weidlein. The album's debut single, Safe In Your Heart, earned them ASCAP's Robert Allen Award for Songwriting. As a recording artist, Amador has released five bodies of work: LP's Ryan Amador (2013) & (In)Body (2016) and EP's Symptoms of a Wide Eyed Being (2011), Palos Verdes: A Teenage Retrospective (2012), and 45 (2014). His music video Define Me has garnered over 650,000 views on YouTube and led to live performances at Pride Events in New York, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Brisbane, Australia. Following the release of his video Spectrum, Amador was selected to give a TEDx Talk in Santa Cruz, CA on the topic of diversified sexuality. In April 2016, Mather Dance Company in California used Amador's song Instead which was then featured by DancingWithYT on YouTube, and has since well-surpassed a million listens on Spotify.

EFRAÍN AMAYA | Classical Music National Selection Panelist | Efraín Amaya began his musical training in Venezuela. In the United States, he earned two Bachelor of Music degrees in composition and piano from Indiana University and a Master's degree in orchestral conducting from Rice University. While in Venezuela, Amaya became the Music Director & Conductor for one of the El Sistema Youth Symphony Orchestras based in the Núcleo La Rinconada. Once back in the U.S., he was named the Resident Conductor and Artist Lecturer in Music Theory at Carnegie Mellon University and Associate Conductor with the Westmoreland Symphony Orchestra. TERESA BARCELO | YoungArts Los Angeles Dance Master Teacher | Born and raised in Miami, Teresa Barcelo has been dancing for most of her thirty-one years. Culturally and classically trained, she started with her mothers' Spanish roots in flamenco and classical Spanish dance at the age of four. After leaving New World School for the Arts College, Teresa, a.k.a. "Toogie," has been fusing contemporary dance with street styles including popping, locking, waacking, housing, and most importantly, improvisation. Since Toogie moved to Los Angeles in 2010, she has become a multi-disciplinary artist, combining her talents in visual art, video and photo direction, choreographing, and teaching improvisation. She works with several dance theatre and contemporary circus companies in Los Angeles and Miami. Toogie also choreographs for Substance Over Hype and competes and judges popping and other dance competitions both locally and abroad.

GERMANE BARNES | YoungArts Miami Design Master Teacher | Germane Barnes' research and design practice investigates the connection between architecture and identity, examining architecture's social and political agency through historical research and design speculation. Learning from historical data and perspectives from within architecture as well as cultural and ethnic studies, he examines how the built environment influences the social and cultural experience. Born in Chicago, IL, Barnes received a Bachelor's of Science in Architecture from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and a Master of Architecture from Woodbury University where he was awarded the Thesis Prize for his project "Symbiotic Territories: Architectural Investigations of Race, Identity, and Community." Currently he is the designer in residence for the Opa Locka Community Development Corporation and a lecturer in the School of Architecture at the University of Miami.

BHAKTI BAXTER | YoungArts Miami Visual Arts Master Teacher | Producing works ranging from naturalistic painted portraits of his family members, to collages reminiscent of Henri Matisse's, to surrealistic, mixed-media sculptural assemblages of found objects, Bhakti Baxter deliberately defies categorization, continually experimenting with different materials, techniques, and approaches to making art. He has been a staple of the contemporary art community in his native Miami since the early 1990s, when he and fellow artists Martin Oppel and Tao Rey transformed the lower level of their rented house into an experimental art space, establishing them as dynamic emerging talents and launching their careers. While Baxter's output ranges vastly, his works are linked by an enduring fascination with natural systems, anthropology, global cultures, and the joy he finds in the alchemical process of art-making: "In art, one plus one can equal three any time—when two things come together, magic can happen."

MARTIN BEJERANO | Jazz National Reviewer | A world-class jazz pianist and composer, Martin Bejerano has been a member of jazz legend Roy Hayne's Grammy-nominated quartet for 13 years. He has performed professionally with Christian McBride, Pat Metheny, Dave Holland, Ron Carter, Russell Malone, Roy Hargrove, Ignacio Berroa, and many others. Currently, she teaches several established dancers the art of abhinaya, interpretation and acting.

JUSTINE KURLAND | YoungArts New York Photography Master Teacher | Justine Kurland is known for her utopian photographs of American landscapes and the fringe communities, both real and imagined, that inhabit them. A lifelong nomad, Kurland takes photographs during cross-country journeys that reveal the double-edged nature of the American dream. She presents a reality where utopia and dystopia are not polar opposites, but rather fold together in an uneasy coexistence. For her most recent exhibition at Mitchell-Innes & Nash, Sincere Auto Care (2014), Kurland returned to a purely documentary style in the tradition of Walker Evans, exploring two competing narratives: the car as an aspirational symbol of freedom, sex, the American Dream, and the bleaker daily life behind the scenes. She received her BFA from School of Visual Arts, NY in 1996, and her MFA from Yale University in 1998. Museum exhibitions have included Into the Sunset: Photography's Image of the American West at the Museum of Modern Art, NY (2009) and Role Models: Feminine Identity in Contemporary American Photography at the National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington, D.C. (2009).
